Death of Well Known Missionary

Mr. W. C. Adam recently received a cablegram from his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Finlay, that her husband had died on Friday, September 5th, of typhus fever. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Finlay are well known in this district having lived and taken an active part in social and religious affairs in this district for some years before taking up missionary work abroad. Their last station has been at Jebba, Africa, where Mr. Finlay caught the fever and passed away. It will probably be some time before full particulars are received as it takes considerable time to get mail from such a distance. Mrs. Finlay will have the sincere sympathy of our whole community in her loss.

MILLINERLY OPENING

Mrs. Peterson will open up a complete line of Fall Millinery at Hugel's store on Saturday, September 20th. All are invited to come and inspect stock.

Change of Post Office Location

According to advice received from Postmaster Morgan the Didsbury Post Office will be moved on the first of October from its present location in the Leusler Block to the former Western Mutual Office in the Klink Block. Mr. Morgan stated that the reason the change was being made was on account of the better accommodation in the Klink Block where there is steam heat, a vault and more room. The merchants on Osler Street are sorry to see the change made, but as it will still be in a central position in the town there should not be a very marked change.

WEALTH IN WOOL INDUSTRY

It has been estimated that Southern Alberta's sheep and wool industry this year will bring sheepmen and farmers of the south new wealth to the extent of $1,500,000.

Losing Our Flavors

The following statement is contained in the last issue of the Alberta Gazette and shows that what a highly efficient Liquor Control Board we have even if they are taking some of the taste out of life.

Notice is hereby given that from and after this date any person within the Province selling or keeping for sale any of the undermentioned proprietary or patent medicines, extracts, essences, tinctures or preparations shall be guilty of an offence under the Government Liquor Control Act of Alberta:

Extract or Essence of Orange.
Extract or Essence of Lemon.
Extract or Essence of Peppermint.

GET LIFE SENTENCE

Chicago Sep. 10.—Life imprisonment was the punishment fixed today by Judge J. R. Caverly upon Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnappers and murderers of 14-year-old Bobby Franks. This was a complete victory for the defence.

Youth was the controlling factor in Judge Caverly's decision. He said no minor had ever been sentenced to death in Illinois, on a plea of guilty.

AROUND THE TOWN

Mrs. S. J. Slough of Vancouver is visiting friends in Didsbury.

Mr. Russell Berscht left on Monday to take up a business course at the Mount Royal College, Calgary.

Commencing this week the picture shows will be run on Wednesdays instead of Thursdays as formerly.

Carstairs won two successive games from Keoma giving them the Intermediate Baseball Championship of Alberta.

The Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. N. S. Clarke on Friday, September 12th at 2.30 p. m.

Services will be conducted in the English language at the Lutheran church at Westcott on Sunday morning at 10.30. A cordial invitation is herewith extended.

Mr. J. A. Russell has moved his confectionery store to Mr. J. Hugel's former stand and has now one of the most attractive stores in town.

The balance of the names of prize winners at the Fair have just been handed in to us by Secretary Wigglesworth and will be published in the near future.

Miss Reto Aveler having taken instruction in Lower Division during the year has been successful in passing the examinations for the Higher Division Degree for Piano-forte. Miss LeGault was her able teacher.

The officers and members of King Hiram Lodge A. F. & A. M. enjoyed an unusual treat on Tuesday night when after the business of the Lodge was closed a portion of the Rocky Mountain Sheep bagged by Wor. Bro. McGhen was included in the luncheon served.

The Rev. H. Clay will hold a Harvest Thanksgiving service in Rugby Schoolhouse on Sunday, September 14th, at 7.30 p. m. Offerings of flowers, fruits and vegetables will be appreciated and will afterwards be sent to the Didsbury General Hospital. Everybody welcome.

Weather in this district keeps cool and threatening with a slight rain on Tuesday night. So far the frost has kept off and farmers are in the midst of cutting. Oats are still quite green in many places and need about a week of good weather to ripen them up sufficiently to cut.

Messrs. J. McGhee, T. Thompson and L. Gilmore returned last Sunday from a trip out west after game. They report an excellent trip with good fishing and a Rocky Mountain Sheep to the credit of McGhee's bag. Jim left for Vancouver on his return so we have the details yet to learn.

FOR SALE:—Auto Knitting machine, rightly used, for sale at reasonable price by Mrs. O. T. Noren. Didsbury. Phone 1107. 2c7

NOTICE OF REMOVAL

Mrs. Peterson will move her stock of millinery to Lake Hugel's store, where she will be prepared to meet all old customers and new, on and after September 20th.

This blizzard had held Seymour at Wolf for three endless weeks. There had been just one recompense. At the end of that period the mission surgeon had pronounced Moira sufficiently recovered to continue her trip by dog team. The weather had favored them and eventually they had found themselves in Athabaska, end-of-street. The trains of the Canadian National and the Grand Trunk Pacific had carried them to Ottawa, the girl to a welcome in the home of friends, the sergeant to report at headquarters.

After a conference with the commissioner, Seymour had stepped out of uniform and into plain clothes. The still-hunt then begun had continued for three months, leading first to Quebec whence Karmack had originally hailed. There the sergeant had obtained information which confirmed his disbelief of the lost-in-blizzard note. Karmack had paid a stealthy visit to his old home and departed. Rumor had it that he had gone to the States. Therefore, Seymour did not cross the border to look for him. Knowing the man and his inclinations, the sergeant's hunch was Montreal. From a rented room on City Councillor Street, midway between the French and Up-town quarters of the city, he had played his hunch industriously, but so far without result. He had kept away from the mounted police headquarters on Sherbrooke West and not once had he been taken for what he was, even by fellow members of the Force.

He was growing tired of the city's confinement, but not discouraged. One day he would meet his man, know him no matter what his disguise.

This was to be a night off, the first he had taken since getting back to civilization. It was to be a gala, reunion night; and it was beginning, for the Ottawa express had just ground to a stop in the shed outside the high iron grill.

His pulse beat quicker as he scanned the in-comers—first the smoking-car complement, then the day-coach passengers and, at last the Pullman elect. Then he saw her, coming with the poise of a queen, a small black bag in her hand. Neatly he hurried the brass barrier and at the very gate he took her into his arms and kissed her.

"Moira, Moira! You're a glad sight for tired eyes," he murmured.

"But not here, Sergeant Scarlet; not here with the world looking on," she whispered in pretended protest.

He did not care how much of the world saw, for between them an understanding of a life had been reached on the trail.

A taxi, its wheels wearing chains with which to grip the snowy streets, hustled them to the Mount Royal Hotel, where he had reserved a room for her. In less time than most men would have believed possible, she had rejoined him in the lobby, a vision fit to snow-blind the gods, gowned in shimmering silver with a black fringe setting it off.

Evenings with Moira were too precious to leave anything to chance and Seymour's program had been carefully prearranged. Again they took a taxi and the taxi took them out St. Catherine Street to a brilliant electric fairyland—the Venetian Gardens. What mattered it that snow never lies in the streets of Venice? Well might they have been in sunny Italy once they had climbed a flight of stairs to pleasure's rendezvous above.

As they entered the huge dancing room, the lights went low and the orchestra that doesn't "jazz" began the soft measures of a waltz. They did not wait to find their table, but swung away with the music—for their first dance together.

And when they were seated, she asked across the narrow board: "Do they teach dancing, as well as riding and straight-shooting, at the Regina depot, Sergeant Scarlet?"

"You're forgetting, you big beautiful Irisher, that I've been to France since I left the Mounted's riding academy."

After they had danced again: "It's hard to wait, Russell. Sometimes I wonder if it's worth while. Will you ever get your man?"

On the frozen trail, after he had spoken the three magic words and she had returned them to him with equal fervor, they had agreed that marriage was not to be thought of until Harry Karmack had been brought to book.

It was a long moment before he answered.

"I've got to get him, Moira. There'd not be complete happiness for us with that business unfinished. You wouldn't want to change a fine old County Mayo name like O'Malley for that of a quitter would you, now? But know this, girl of mine—"

He did not finish, his interest claimed by a large red-headed man, a bit the worse for liquor. This chap's attention had been attracted by a pair of police constables, resplendent in their brilliant uniforms, handsome young fellows attached to the Montreal detachment, which has a reputation of "swank."

"Take those young Mounties a bottle of wine and mark it down on my check," the rubic one was saying to the waiter.

The woman with him, a pretty French girl, reached across the table in an effort to quiet him.

"You leave me alone, Florette," he resented. "I got most all the money in the world and those brave lads work for next to nothing a year."

"Next to nothing a year," Seymour repeated the expression under his breath. Where had he heard that expression before as applied to the same Force which yonder cubs decorated? In a flash he was transported back to the trade-room of a sub-Arctic factor.

"But know this, girl of mine," Seymour repeated. "Get him I will."

CHAPTER XIV.

A Double-Barrelled Case

Sergeant Russell Seymour of the Royal Canadian again was mounted—actually astride a horse with spur at heel and a fine feel of leather between his knees. The best part of the continent separated him from the Montreal fairyland and the regal beauty in whom his ambition and hope lay centered.

An exigency of the service—the policing of the mushroom gold camp which he was approaching—had been responsible for the sudden shift of action's scene. Not that the hunt for the Armistice embezzler had been forgotten or abandoned, but with the idea that a cold trail might warm if left alone for a while, its crossing effected when least expected.

The problem at Gold, British Columbia, was so large a one that the authorities had overlooked no advantage. The fact that Seymour had never seen service in the province presented the attractive possibility of his making a preliminary survey in plain clothes, severely plain, in truth—as plain as stained khaki, scuffed leather and battered felt could materialize.

The fact that the region was that selected by Moira's father for his missionary activities and that she proposed soon to join the parent did not make the summer prospect less attractive for the big policeman. "The lovely creature riding beside him, however, was not the Irish girl but another he had overtaken entirely by chance.

"Of course," he was saying to her, "it wouldn't be a worth-while gold rush if there wasn't plenty of crowds and excitement. Do you think I'm in time?"

"Oh, there's still a chance for you to locate a pay claim—if luck's riding with you," she said cheerfully. "Scarcely a day passes without someone reporting a new 'discovery.' But you're just three days too late for our first real excitement. One of the B. C. X. stages was held up and robbed last Monday."

Almost did the sergeant give himself away at this crime report. In more ways than his fair informant could possibly imagine, he felt too late.

At a recent conference in Hazelton, a railroad town on the Grand Trunk Pacific, Assistant Commissioner Baxter, in command of the division in which the new diggings lay, had decided that the sergeant should remain inognito until he had had opportunity to study the field of his new important command. In the role of one of the gold-crazed "rushers" the news of the camp would float unrestrained in his presence. He should be able to get an advance line on those who were prone to lawlessness, as well as identify the element which might be counted on the side of law and order. Moreover, he could form an unbiased opinion as to the prospective permanency of the camp and the number of constables needed to place it satisfactorily.

He had shipped a "war bag" containing his uniforms and personal effects by the stage line of this same British Columbia Express which the girl had just mentioned. The charges were prepaid and the baggage was to be held until called for. Then he had set out on a rangy police horse, Kaw, over the Old Sun Trail, a time-blazed path into the Yukon country, from which a cross-cut had let him into Argonaut Valley.

"Did the robbers get—make their escape?" he asked, remembering in time to cut the professional tone from his question.

"Clean as a whistle. They killed the driver at the reins so there isn't a clew even to what they looked like or how many there were."

"But the passengers?" he ventured to ask.

The girl shrugged shapely shoulders. The face that looked from beneath the shielding brim was framed in ash-blond wavelets. The figure that had looked so boyish from a distance, while he was overtaking her, was now rounded into exquisite feminine lines. Her corduroy riding trousers were frankly worn without hint of a skirt, but her gray flannel shirt was V'd at the neck to show a marble throat such as no boy could have endured. And in the belt that pouched a man-weight automatic was the final touch—a small bouquet of waxen snowflowers.

In answer to his question she told him that there were no passengers in the coach. "It was the inbound baggage wagon they held up, you see—doubtless by mistake."

As he pondered the unusual circumstance of road agents mistaking a baggage wagon for a passenger-carrying coach, they were startled by gun fire. Seymour's expert ears placed it a short distance ahead and to the right of them—a bit nearer town. He recognized the snarl of a rifle and, a moment later, the bark of a pistol. Unquestionably, the reports had come from different weapons.

A half-stifled scream drew his attention to the girl at his side. The effect on her was surprising. She could not have showed greater alarm if one of the bullets had perforated her hat. Every trace of color had fled her cheeks.

"Oh, that it's just some hunter and not—"

If she finished her prayerful expression, Seymour did not hear it, for she had dug heels into her horse and the animal was skimming the trail.

Kaw took after the cayuse full tilt; his rider, the while, listening for other shots, but heard none. Ahead, he saw the girl round a sharp turn into what seemed to be a through road into town. If she was seeking the source of the shots they had heard, he knew she need not go far.

When his black negotiator the turn and the road was spread out before him, he saw that she had arrived. Her horse stood nosing another and she was kneeling in the trail beside an indistinct figure. In a moment he had dismounted and stood beside her.

"Too late," she cried, looking up at him with a terrified expression. "If only I hadn't slowed to chat with you—I feared they would get him and was riding to warn him. I thought there was plenty of time to get to town before he started."

She did not blame him for the delay; seemed only to accuse herself. For the sergeant, there was enough of surprise in the figure of the slain man to occupy his mind and eyes.

"Who—who is he?" he asked after staring a moment.

"He's our new mounted police offcer, Sergeant Russell Seymour," she said, her voice hushed. "Don't you know the uniform when you see it?" Seymour did recognize that particular uniform far better than she possibly could have imagined, but he refrained from admitting it.

Reaching down, the sergeant raised the girl to her feet; but he did not set her right on the mistake in identity. The case looked double-barrelled to him inasmuch as it gave him an inside line on the holdup of the express company's stage and a lead toward at least one element of the heterogeneous camp which was opposed to the coming of the Dominion's law-bringers. He meant to handle both angles with the utmost effect and the fact that they existed must for a time remain his secret.

Wonderful Instrument
For Munich Museum

Model of Planetary System Masterpiece of Mechanical Construction

The electrical orrery, which is to be placed in the Deutsches Museum at Munich under the great Dome, has been completed and was recently exhibited by the makers, Zeiss, of Jena. It is described by the scientists who saw it in operation as a masterpiece of mechanical construction, and is likely to take a place among the leading attractions of the museum as soon as it has been erected. The work has occupied a considerable number of years and has been executed under the supervision of the original designer, Dr. Bauersfeld, a physicist employed by the firm.

A complete departure has been made from the old system in which movable globes were used to trace the course of the planets. The new orrery consists of a spacious dome with a white inner surface to represent the heavens and a complicated system of projectors to which the dome stands in the same relation as the screen to a cinematograph. There are in all some 40 projectors geared together in such a manner that the images of sun, moon and stars thrown on to the inner surface of the dome simulate the motions of these bodies with great accuracy.

When the lights in the dome are extinguished and the projectors are brought into action, the starry heaven appear in all their beauty with the Milky Way wearing just that subdued radiance which it has on the glorious nights, and are set in motion by an electrical engine.

(An orrery is a clockwork model of the planetary system, named after the Earl of Orrery, 1700.)

The Harm Of Overeating

Doctor Says People Could Get Along On Less Food

Almost everybody eats too much. Perhaps one meal a day is not enough, but whether you eat once or three times, I beg of you to eat moderately. You cannot get along without a reasonable amount of rest and sleep, but you can get along on a much smaller intake of food than you indulge in every day.

There is no surer way of extending the span of life than by reducing the number and size of the "helpings" at each meal. Try it and see how much better you feel.

You need not tell me about Mr. A. and Mr. B., notoriously enormous eaters, who lived to be a hundred. There are some human beings like some automobile engines—absolutely refusing to stop in spite of outrageous treatment. If it were not for these exceptional cases, there would be no need of issuing warnings to big eaters. The continued existence of one violator of all the rules of hygiene appears to be more impressive than the untimely deaths of hundreds who died young just because they paid no attention to the rules of hygiene and common sense.

Overeating has done more harm than alcoholic intemperance, and in making this statement I am fully alive to all the evils of rum drinking. Some day it will be considered just as unseemly to overeat as it is now to get drunk.—By Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

Playful Bears

Every telephone and telegraph pole in the remote districts of Norway has to be constantly watched on account of the bears, which have a mania for climbing the poles and sitting on the cross beams, away backward and forward until the pole falls.

The giant bush pig of Kenya colony is a beast that is so rarely seen that its existence is doubted by some, although several reputable travellers claim to have observed it.

Devon Medical Officer Tells Council
He's Still Fit For His Job

When should a man retire?

"Not until he is more than 100 or is incapable, mentally or physically, of doing his job," says Dr. E. J. Slade-King, who has refused to resign from the position of Medical Officer of Health of Ilfracombe, Devon. Dr. Slade-King, who is within a few months of being 100 years old, told a deputation from the council that he would not retire.

"Younger men want to step into my shoes," he said to a reporter, "but let them strike out for themselves, as I had to do. I am hale and hearty and do my job every day."

Dr. Slade-King also holds the position of coroner.

A SPLENDID LAXATIVE
FOR THE BABY

Mothers should constantly be on guard to keep baby's bowels working freely and his stomach sweet. For nine-tenths of the ailments from which little ones suffer are caused by derangements of the stomach and bowels. Baby's Own Tablets are a splendid laxative for the baby. They are mild but thorough; contain neither opiates nor narcotics, and are absolutely guaranteed to be safe and efficient for either the newborn babe or the growing child. By their action on the bowels and stomach they drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the dreaded teething period easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ancient Asia Minor Church

The foundations of a great Christian church, more than 200 feet long, of a very early date and which may represent the successor of the church founded by St. Paul, have been unearthed by the University of Michigan expedition, headed by Professor Francis W. MISERABLE AND

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Dependable Help for Mothers

Port Greville, Nova Scotia.—"I took your medicine for a terrible pain in my side and for weakness and headaches. I seemed to float all over, too, and my feet and hands were the worst. I am the mother of four children and I am nursing my baby—the first one of four I could nurse. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before the baby's birth, so you can see how much it helped me. I cannot praise it too highly for what it has done for me. I took all kinds of medicine, but the Vegetable Compound is the only one that has helped me for any length of time. I recommend it to any one with troubles like mine and you may use my letter for a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT McCULLLEY, Port Greville, Nova Scotia.

Before and after child-birth the mother will find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a blessing.

Many, many letters are received giving the same sort of experience as is given in this letter. Not only is the mother benefited, but these good results pass on to the child.

No harmful drugs are used in the preparation of this medicine—just roots and herbs—and it can be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

96 out of every 100 women reported benefit from its use in a recent canvass among women users of this medicine. C

Why Peruvian Crude Makes Better Motor Oils

The oil found in Peru belongs to the general classification known as "Naphthene Base Oils." This distinguishes it from the "Asphalt Base Oils" of Mexico, the "Paraffine Base oils" of Pennsylvania, and the so-called "Semi-Base Oils of the Mid-Continent field."

When choosing a Crude Oil from which to manufacture Motor Oils, the first step is to find an answer to the question, "What are the characteristics of a good Motor Oil?" The answer to this question has a direct bearing on the choice of Crude Oil as well as on the manufacturing methods followed. We have answered this question as follows:

1. A good Motor Oil must lubricate.
2. A good Motor Oil must not form gummy carbon deposits on valves and pistons.

3. A good Motor Oil must operate in cold weather as well as in warm.

4. A good Motor Oil ought to give non-corrosive products of combustion.

We will now analyze the above points.

1. A good motor oil must lubricate. This statement may seem redundant and one may be inclined to say, "Oh, well, any oil will lubricate." This, unfortunately, is not the case. In order to lubricate properly, an oil must have two characteristics; first sufficient body to keep the lubricated surfaces apart; second, a low coefficient of friction. To have body, an oil must be produced from Peruvian Crude possesses both these necessary properties in a very high degree.

2. A good motor oil must not form gummy carbon deposits on valves and pistons. This property is determined experimentally in the laboratory by what is known as Conradson Carbon Residue Test. This test consists in subjecting a weighted quantity of oil to a high temperature excluding air. The amount remaining on decomposition of the oil is known as carbon residue. Experiments have shown that Peruvian Crude gives motor oil in which this residue is a minimum.

3. A good motor oil must operate in cold weather as well as in warm. This means that the oil must have a low setting point or pour test. To determine this quality the oil is put into a test tube in which a thermometer is inserted. The tube is placed on an ice pack (salt and ice) the pour point being taken as the lowest temperature at which the oil will pour. Oils which contain Paraffine Wax are not suitable for use in cold weather. Peruvian Crude contains no Wax and is, therefore, eminently suitable for the manufacture of low cold test oils.

4. Oils which contain much sulphur on burning will give sulphur oxides. If these sulphur oxides find their way down into the crank case, where a certain amount of moisture is inevitably present, (a product of combustion of the fuel) sulphurous and sulphuric acids are formed, which will attack bearings, crank shafts, etc.

Peruvian Crude Oil is a low sulphur crude and therefore this danger is eliminated.

Although Peruvian Crude is brought to this country at great expense and many cheaper crudes could be obtained, the above four quality points were considered as unanswerable arguments for the manufacture of Polarines from Peruvian Crude.

The Indian railway gauge is the broadest in the world and a modern first-class compartment is the last word in comfort.

Fans, shaded lights, cooling arrangements, blue glass windows to let down in case the glare is too strong, Venetian blinds to supply an airy twilight, a luxurious bath-room next door, arm-chairs, tables, beds. . . . Yes, beds. In India, the traveller takes his bedding with him by train. After dinner his servant enters the carriage, makes the bed and lays out the Sahib's pyjamas and slippers.

Unless otherwise ordered, he will await—the Sahib's return and help pull off his boots and clothes. Perhaps this is a relic of the old "John Company" days, when the Sahib came back of an evening carrying more than a necessary dose of brandy pawnee; at any rate the old-fashioned servant still expects to unlace his master's boots.

It is, however, unnecessary to do what one's servant expects. But to be without a servant in India would be impossible. For a ten-day trip each married couple and every two or three bachelors will find it desirable to have an attendant.

A word as to their treatment: Many of these servants are excellent and trustworthy men; but the idea of "liberty, equality, fraternity" is abhorrent to them. The tourist who is condescending enough to show them any sort of brotherly love will be merely snubbed for his pains, for the relations of master and man have been established since immemorial time throughout the East.

The average compartment on the Indian railways is nearly twice the size of the American drawing room car. Two couches run along its length on either side, under the windows. At the foot of each there is door-space and an armchair. Above the couches are two more berths, to be let down at night as occasion requires.

A very large quantity of baggage is carried in every compartment, for many passengers take, in addition to wardrobe trunk, bedding, suitcase, helmet-case, typewriter and all sorts of odds and ends such as hogspears, golf-sticks, fishing rods and tiffin baskets. But there is room for everything and anything (a perambulator is a common sight and a cottage piano has been taken as personal luggage) on the wide floor of an Indian railway compartment.

In the early morning, when the tired sun of India is fighting its way over the mists lying over the plains, your servant comes with "chota-haziri," the "little breakfast" of the East, consisting of tea and buttered toast.

Later, he returns to lay out your clothes. So do the servants of the other passengers; if there happen to be four travellers in a compartment, each with a servant and with the articles of baggage enumerated above, the routine of shaving and dressing is apt to resemble a film comedy.

One compartment on the train, or sometimes more, is reserved for ladies traveling alone. A whole compartment can always be reserved by paying for four first class seats. Considering the accommodation provided, travel is not expensive in India. A first class fare from Bombay to Delhi costs about $35.

The day passes quickly on the train, for the plains of India, having been cultivated for untold ages, hold more of interest than similar places in other parts of the world, which have not been lived in so long. The diversity of types to be seen at the wayside stations is truly amazing.

Twilight. Dinner-time. The teeming plains of India still unroll before you.

You return to your carriage, where your bed has been laid out on one of the sofas. With a novel and a bedside light, you while away a few more hours, reading, smoking, watching the dim villages, shorn of their dirt and decrepitude, and invested with a certain magic in the moonlight. Between these villages, thick with a life lived in a key so minor that the North American could hardly live a day on the month's food of an Indian peasant, slow bullock carts creep along, bound on errands we know nothing of.

The mystery of India steals over your drowsy senses, you switch off the lights, the fan overhead moans, the coach wheels chatter of their travel and you pass into your own particular Western brand of nirvana, until, at last, day returns and a dusky figure says: "Salaam, Sahib, chotahaziri ready!"

The photographs reproduced above were taken by members of the Across India party of the "Empress of Canada" 1924 "Round the World" cruise passengers. Next season the second "Round the World" cruise will be conducted under Canadian Pacific auspices, the famous trans-Atlantic liner "Empress of France" being scheduled to sail from New York on January 14th, returning, via the Panama, May 23rd. Shore excursions will be made from every port of call, and, among other things, all members of the cruise will be taken by train to Delhi, one of the ancient cities of the world and capital of India, and to Agra, the beautiful city of the Moguls where facilities will also be available for members of the cruise who desire to take an extension trip from Agra to Benares, and also to Calcutta, Darjeeling, Madras and Madura, rejoining the ship at Colombo.

Safety First

The invention of the automobile and the rapidity with which it has come into general use has worked a revolution in the lives and habits of people comparable only to that brought about by the introduction of the steam locomotive. The steam railway made possible the enormous expansion and development which marked the nineteenth century. It spanned the continents, brought isolated settlements into touch with centres of population, opened vast areas to settlement, and made possible our highly developed industries by providing the means of transportation of their products to far distant markets. It broke down the provincialism in which so many people lived through making travel possible, thereby dissipating much of the ignorance and suspicion of other people and countries which prevailed.

The automobile is now further developing and extending these benefits to mankind. To a greater extent possibly than even the railway, the motor car is bringing city and country parts into closer touch and understanding. The average farmer of today is not isolated as was the case twenty years ago. A day's journey to town by a horse-drawn vehicle is now a matter of only two or three hours, with all that this means in service of all kinds to the rural home.

And the city man and his family, who formerly spent their vacations going by rail to other cities, are now to an increasing extent every year making use of their motor car to tour the country. Week-end trips to the country are a popular pastime, and picnic parties away from the city for twenty, fifty, one hundred miles to beauty spots in the country are of daily occurrence. The country thus reaps the advantages of the city, and the city is enabled to enjoy and appreciate the country.

The farmer has long suffered inconvenience and loss through lack of good roads. Even he did not fully appreciate just how great was the loss thereby sustained in the hauling of his products to market, with the result that not infrequently he opposed expenditures necessary to the construction of good roads and bridges. To an even greater extent, the city dweller was averse to increasing taxation for the purpose of rural road building. The automobile has changed all this, and today both city dweller and rural resident is clamoring for the building of good roads. Hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent on roads and the farmers are reaping the benefit in reduced costs in hauling their products to market.

Thus are the habits of people changing, and radical improvements being wrought in the economic life of the country. The automobile has, of course, also created new problems. Congestion of traffic in centres of population is one of them, and cities lacking wide thoroughfares now find themselves in difficulty, while in all the more populous cities, congestion in the downtown sections is so great that the most stringent traffic regulations and control have to be enforced.

The use of the motor car having become almost universal, the most serious problem of all is the avoidance of accidents. Cars are driven by all kinds of people, old and young; those who are careful and those who are careless, even reckless; nervous people and daredevils. Although the great majority are, no doubt, careful drivers, one reckless person, having little or no regard for others, may be responsible for much damage and suffering. There are the "road hogs" and the "speed fiends" who sacrifice everybody to their own desires and selfishness.

Admittedly there are fewer accidents than would be the case if the same number of horse-driven vehicles were on the streets and roads, the number of motor accidents is far greater than it should be or there is any necessity for. Hence the importance of the Safety First campaigns now being organized in different parts of the country, such, for example, as the one in Westchester County, N.Y. On June 1 last, the 14 communities in the county jointly started a Safety Week campaign—a short, intensive drive to impress on all residents and tourists alike, with the necessity of exercising care. During the week in this county of 100,000 population, and through which 100,000 motor-driven vehicles pass every day to and from New York City, there was only one death and six serious injuries, as compared with an average of 18 persons killed each month during the preceding four months, not to mention hundreds seriously injured.

What is being accomplished in Westchester County can be repeated all over the country if sufficiently energetic steps are taken to impress on everybody the absolute necessity of the greatest care being exercised in view of the changed conditions which the almost universal use of the motor car has brought into our present-day civilization, and the inflicting of drastic punishment on those who persist in disregarding all laws and the rights of others.

A Simple Luncheon

Carefully Prepared Recipes, For a Tasty Meal.

One runs out of ideas for a simple, nourishing, tasty luncheon, especially for a fish day or for warm weather.

Hereunder is a suggestion with recipes which have been carefully prepared.

Cream of Green Pea Soup.—1½ cupsful Borden's St. Charles Milk; 2½ cupsful cold water; 1 teaspoonful sugar; ¼ teaspoonful scraped onion; 2 tablespoonfuls butter or butter substitute; 1½ tablespoonfuls flour; 1 teaspoonful salt; ¼ teaspoonful pepper; 1 cupful canned or cooked fresh peas. Add the peas, sugar and onion to the cold water and simmer for twenty minutes. Then rub through a sieve; add the evaporated milk, reheat and thicken with the flour blended with the butter and the seasonings.

Steamed Salmon with White Sauce.—1 slice salmon, about 2 pounds; 2 hard boiled eggs; Parsley. Once the recipe for white sauce. Wipe off the salmon with a damp cloth; lay it on a well oiled plate, dust lightly with salt and pepper, and steam for thirty minutes. Then carefully remove the skin, transfer the fish to the centre of a medium sized platter, surround with the white sauce and garnish with the egg cut in sixths, and the parsley.

Custard Pie.—¾ cupful Borden's St. Charles Milk; 1½ cupsful water; 3 eggs; 4½ tablespoonfuls sugar; ¼ teaspoonful salt; few drops nutmeg extract; grated nutmeg; pastry. Line a deep pie plate with the pastry. Beat together the eggs, sugar, salt and nutmeg extract, then pour in the evaporated milk and water. Mix well, pour into the lined plate, grate over a little nutmeg. Bake in a quick oven at first to set the rim, decrease the heat afterwards, as egg and milk in combination need to be cooked at low temperature.

Princesses in Business

There are now thirty-four Russian Princesses in England engaged in business, says an English correspondent. Strange to say, while many find it hard to make a living, these exalted refugees all seem to prosper, although some of them can scarcely speak a dozen words of the English language correctly. One charming Princess sells puppies and claims to be making a cool £7,000 per annum.

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down, and sleep is driven from his brain. What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. Insist on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

Tattooing the lover's name on the wrist is said to have supplanted the wrist-watch as a fad among English girls.

Minard's Liniment for Sprains and Bruises

A novel insurance policy has just been issued by Lloyd's underwriters. It insures against death from excessive laughter while in the theatre.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

Calgary, Alberta, is said to have more telephones in proportion to population than any other community on the American continent.

Internally and Externally it is Good. The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, croup, whooping cough, pains in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs little and there is no loss in always having it at hand.

Last year nearly 700 persons were killed in London street accidents, while there were 72,000 non-fatal accidents.

BROCKVILLE FARMER SUFFERED 20 YEARS

"Les" Booth Finally Got Relief Through Taking Tanlac.

"Since taking Tanlac I feel so fit it sometimes seems like a dream for there was hardly a day in 20 years that I did not suffer," is the striking statement of Geo. L. ("Les") Booth, 271 Perth St., Brockville, Ont., one of the best known farmers in Ontario.

"For 20 years, up to three years ago when I took Tanlac, I suffered from rheumatism in my arms, shoulders, back and hips, so bad at times I could not lift my arms to put my coat on. I couldn't even write my name and I just limped about like a cripple. Many a night it looked like I would not live to see daybreak and once I was laid up six months unable to hit a lick of work.

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done me. It ended every sign of rheumatism and built up my weight 16 pounds, and since then I have not had a rheumatic ache or pain. If anybody wants to know about Tanlac, just let them see Les Booth."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

VARYING YIELDS ARE INDICATED IN CROP REPORTS

Ottawa.—Reports of crop conditions in the prairie provinces on August 31, compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, indicate greatly varying wheat yields in different territories. From Mordey, Manitoba, cutting of wheat is reported as complete, and threshing general. "Cereal yields are better than for several years, some fields of Marquis wheat yielding 40 bushels," it is reported. The Manitoba Department of Agriculture reports wheat two-fifths cut in Southern Manitoba on September 1, and cutting just beginning in the north. "Rye and barley cutting well advanced; frost damage small, and hail loss slight; rust damage negligible in Manitoba, but some loss in places." Brandon reports estimate the yield at 18 bushels.

Reports from Saskatchewan on August 25 are encouraging. The best crops are in the southern part of the province. It is reported, but a marked improvement is apparent in the east, central and northern districts. Wheat cutting general about the end of the month. From Swift Current yields are estimated at from 10 to 30 bushels an acre.

Harvesting is proceeding in Alberta under varied conditions. At the end of the month the cutting in the southern section of the province was from 25 to 25 per cent. complete. In the southern areas late rains have improved the grain crops somewhat, and warm weather has aided the filling process to such an extent that yields in some districts will be larger than anticipated.

Notwithstanding the late rains, however, there is a very large area in Southeastern Alberta where the yields will be very light. It is reported much of the grain in these sections will be cut with headers. This process is now going on, being hampered in some sections by heavy growth of weeds, which developed as a result of the late rains. The experimental farm at Lethbridge reports that the general rains in August greatly improved the feed situation at the end of July. Yield of late seeded coarse grains will be materially improved, but the effect on wheat, beyond better filling, will not be much.

Diamond Robbery in Toronto

Merchants Lose Valuable Papers and $15,000 Worth of Jewels

Toronto.—Assorted diamonds valued at $15,000 were stolen from the office of H. Strauss and Sons, wholesale diamond merchants. The combination lock was, apparently, cut out by means of a cold chisel, no explosive being used, as is generally the case. The whole lock was lying on the floor beside the open door of the safe.

In addition to the diamonds, the firm lost insurance papers and a number of stock certificates. The safe was absolutely empty when found by the caretaker.

Ontario Prohibition Issue

Toronto, Ont.—The prohibition issue will be before the people of Ontario on October 23. On that date the electors of this province will express their opinions on questions intended to guide the Government as to the continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act or some other form of legislation relative to the sale of intoxicants. Political observers look for one of the most strenuously conducted plebiscite elections in the history of this part of Canada.

Says Canada Wants Navy

Quebec.—There is a growing sentiment in Canada in favor of Canadian participation in a scheme of naval defence, and practical expression will be given to this sentiment when Canada's overseas export trade assumes larger proportions. This was the opinion expressed by Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field prior to the leave-taking of the British Special Service Squadron.

Saskatchewan Farmers Can Get Advance On Pool Wheat

Regina, Sask.—While the initial payment to be made on delivery of pool wheat is yet undecided and no advances have yet been made in respect to grain delivered at elevators, it is possible for the farmers to secure an advance on bills of lading by applying to the head office of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool organization in Regina, according to a statement issued. The advance, it was stated, would depend on the quality and other factors. Officials of the pool stated that they expected to have 7,000,000 acres under contract before the close of the season. The initial objective was 6,166,000 acres.

Collect Customs Duty At St. Paul Yards

New Arrangement With U.S. Importers To Cattle Shippers

Winnipeg.—In future customs duty on cattle being exported from Canada to the United States via Winnipeg, will be collected at South St. Paul stock yards, and not at Emerson nor on Winnipeg stock yard weights, as heretofore. This very important announcement was made by O. Freer and W. J. MacGowan, of the Winnipeg Livestock Exchange, on their return from St. Paul, where they were in conference with United States' customs officials, bureau of animal industry representatives and local stock yard men, who have been in communication with Washington on the subject.

Mr. MacGowan, President of the Winnipeg stocker and feeder show, hails this arrangement as being of the greatest value to Western Canada farmers, as it will mean, he stated, the reception in the States from Canada of cattle of a much more perfect physical fitness than under the old regulations.

Home Bank Claims

Conference of Depositors to be Held in Toronto on Oct. 1st

Toronto.—F. E. Weldon, joint liquidator with G. T. Clark of the Home Bank, stated that good progress was being made in meeting preferred claims against the bank's assets. He said that out of $1,700,000 notes of the bank, $1,600,000 had been paid, and the others would be dealt with as they appeared.

In order to pay the dividend of 25 per cent. to depositors, a total of $3,700,000 had been required, of which $2,400,000 had been borrowed from other banks, but of the latter sum $1,600,000, or 66 2-3 per cent., had been paid back. The liquidators proposed next to deal with the obligation of $1,200,000 to the Ontario Government, which is a preferred depositor under the law.

The national committee of Home Bank depositors, which has not met since Parliament laid over until next session the claim for compensation, has been called to a conference in this city on October 1.

Tip To Railroad Prevented Hold-Up

Sheriffs Boarded Golden State Limited and Captured Bandit

Chicago.—A tip to Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad officials prevented a hold-up of the Golden State Limited, at Meade, Kansas. Deputy sheriffs boarded the train a few miles east of Meade, and fought off three masked men who boarded the train at the latter stop.

In the shooting that followed, two of the deputies were wounded, one of the bandits was captured and the others escaped into the darkness.

Veteran Horseman Dead

Wheeling, W. Va.—Edward F. "Pop" Geers, of Memphis, Tenn., dean of American harness drivers, and known for many years as the "grand old man of the trotting turf," died in "the harness." The veteran horseman was fatally injured when his mare, Miladi Guy, stumbled and fell during the first harness race at the West Virginia State Fair.

British Milling Concern To Operate In West

Spillers, Overseas, Limited, Now Actively Engaged in Grain and Milling Business

Calgary.—Spillers Overseas, Limited, the British milling company, has completed negotiations with the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, according to telegraphic information received from Montreal from Sir William Nicholls, head of Spillers' interests.

It is understood that this announcement means the acquiring by Spillers, Limited, of the controlling interest in the Alberta Pacific Grain Company. The administration is to remain the same, with John I. McFarland, now head of the Alberta Pacific, as managing director, and the present staff will be retained.

This arrangement completes negotiations carried on by Spillers during the last few months in connection with the announced intention made some time ago of investing $6,500,000 in Western Canada. The company has already secured control of the Alberta Flour Mills, Limited, Calgary, with a daily capacity of 10,000 barrels, and is building a huge terminal elevator at Vancouver with a capacity of 2,000,000 bushels and at a cost of $2,500,000.

The Alberta Pacific Grain Company owns and controls 283 elevators, two-thirds of which are situated in this province, and the remainder in Saskatchewan, with the exception of one or two in British Columbia.

Child Spent Night in Bush

Nelson.—Wandering away up Perry Creek from where its parents were camping, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Leith, of Wycliffe, spent a night in the bush in spite of anxious search parties, and was found unharmed in the morning at 8 o'clock on the opposite bank of the creek two or three miles distant from the camp.

Allied Powers to Protect Foreigners in China

Washington.—Word of action by representatives of the United States, Great Britain and France, to assure protection of foreign lives and property in the civil war zone about Shanghai, was received from American Charge d'Affaires Bell. They have asked that a declaration of neutrality be issued covering the whole Yangtze River and its mouth. American citizens in the war zone are not in immediate danger, according to Consul-General Cunningham. Bell informed the Chinese foreign minister at Peking that the whole Yangtze River from Woosung is practically one vast harbor, containing ships of every nationality, and that a naval battle in the greatest harbor in the East could not be tolerated.

Interview Premier Dunning

Moderationists of Saskatchewan Present Views On Liquor Laws

Regina, Sask.—Answering a delegation from the Moderation League of Saskatchewan, which waited on Premier Dunning and members of his cabinet and which presented the league's desires in the way of liquor legislation, the Premier said:

"Do not believe any rumors you may hear as to legislation under consideration. The first statement will be made from the floor of the house."

The league's formal statement declared that body to be in favor of:

The establishment of Government liquor stores, or agencies in the cities, towns and villages of the province for the sale of spirituous and malt liquors in sealed packages.

The retail sale of beer to be consumed on licensed premises.

That in cases of infractions of the act the penalties be severe and include the cancellation of the license of the premises for a period commensurate with the offence.

Absorbs Subsidiaries

Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Co. Becomes Largest Grain Handling Firm in World

Regina.—The amalgamation of all subsidiary companies of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company under the name of the parent organization is announced here.

Up to now the Saskatchewan Co-operative Terminals, Ltd., the James Stewart Grain Corporation of New York and the James Stewart Grain Company, Ltd., Winnipeg, were operated as separate units. Under the re-organization scheme these will be operated as departments of the parent firm.

The change brings the central control of the largest self-contained grain handling firm in the world to Regina. The departments of the company are now operated at Regina, Winnipeg, Port Arthur, New York and Vancouver, all administered from the head office in this city.

WORLD PEACE CAN COME ONLY BY ARBITRATION

Geneva.—The next disarmament conference must be held in Europe, not Washington, Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister, declared in explaining Great Britain's position on the great problems before the League assembly.

Mr. MacDonald expressed the conviction that any new conference, especially if it discussed reduction of land armaments, should be held in Europe, because it could best treat here conditions existing in Europe. The heads of the European states must attend such a conference if the conference hoped to accomplish anything authoritatively.

The conference would probably last several months, and the premiers must be free to come back and forth. If held in Washington, it would be impossible for the premiers to spend sufficient time there.

The Prime Minister said there was no nation more interested in the reduction of armaments than the United States; if it did not participate in any new conference, it would be a source of tremendous disappointment to everybody.

Mr. MacDonald emphasized arbitration as the best means of assuring world peace. His Government was opposed to the proposed pact of guarantees, because Britain wanted to know what it was doing, and would not sign a blank cheque. He favored some arbitration tribunal able to deliver judgments which would make for peace, and declared that Britain believed that a pact of guarantees would smash the League and make for war.

Referring to the policy of pacts for mutual assistance, Mr. MacDonald feared they would nurture what he termed the mustard seed of militarism.

Because the countries have not approved the pact of guarantees, the Premier went on, was no sign that everything was lost. The outlook was bright; the British Government would go to the limit in backing any feasible plan.

Labor Government A Fixture In Britain

So Thinks Malcolm MacDonald, Son of the British Premier

Montreal.—There are no young Liberals being born in Great Britain today. Things have changed since the days of Gilbert and Sullivan, when every young Briton was either a "Bible Liberal or else a little Conservative." The babies of the future are destined to be either Conservatives or Laborites. This is the assertion of Malcolm MacDonald, son of Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, interviewed in Montreal.

"The present Labor Government is the beginning of a long Labor rule," Mr. MacDonald says. "Labor will do very well in the next election, but I don't think they will get a clear majority. It will be a tussle between the Conservatives and Laborites." The Liberals would not figure much, and he does not believe that Lloyd George will ever return to power.

The star in the Conservative firmament would be Winston Churchill whom Mr. MacDonald believes will one day be Conservative leader.

Mr. MacDonald is in Canada as a member of the Oxford University debating team, which will engage in oratorical contests in Canada and United States.

No Special Preparation For Prince

Toronto.—The manager of the Prince of Wales' ranch in Alberta, W. L. Carlyle, was in the city Sept. 2, enroute to the west. No ostentatious preparations were being made, he said, for the Prince's visit to his ranch.

MOTOR TOURIST TRAFFIC

Remarkable increase in the motor tourist traffic to Alberta mountain resorts has been reported. The registration of cars entering the Rocky Mountain National Park is double that of the year previous. In the entire 1923 season 3100 passengers were registered at the camp while up to the end of July this year a total of 7557 passengers had been registered.

Rail tourist traffic into the province has also been very heavy both to Jasper and Banff Parks.

Almost every man believes in heredity until his son acts like a chump.

FORD SHARES OFFERED

Following is an article copied from Canadian Finance illustrating another of the Ford peoples' funny ideas:

Many owners of Ford cars are receiving circulars inviting them to invest in an issue of Ford Motor Company of Canada "bankers' shares." They are told they have the right as Ford owners to secure part ownership in the Ford Motor Company of Canada. The circulars describe in detail the company's past history, its future and excellent management, and the fortunes which have resulted from an original investment in its stock. Prospective buyers are urged to purchase at once since the price of the "bankers' shares" is "subject to increase without notice at any time."

The psychology of these circulars leaves the impression of great possibilities for profit. There are 100 of these shares issued against each share of Ford of Canada capital stock, and they sell for 80 apiece. Ford of Canada capital stock can be bought on the Curb for $450 a share. Purchase of 100 "bankers' shares" is therefore equivalent to buying one share of Ford of Canada capital stock. But $800 is paid for 100 "bankers' shares" which is just $150 more than the market price of Ford of Canada capital stock.—Canadian Finance.

GAME SEASON OPENS

Nimrods are preparing for the opening of the hunting season in Alberta on Monday September 15 which continues to December 14.

The season for prairie chicken, partridge, etc., opens October 1, and is for that month only. Hungarian partridge may be shot south of the Battle River from September 15 to November 15, but there is no open season north of the Battle River for this game bird. The bag limit of ducks is 30 a day, 200 for the season, and on geese, 15 a day. For prairie chicken the limit is 10 a day and 15 for the season.

Sunday shooting is prohibited and the killing of animals under one year of age.

The following rules are also worth while reading and remembering. It is unlawful to kill any big game animal with horns less than four inches in length. To buy, sell, deal, or traffic in the flesh of any big game or game bird. To place ducks, geese, snipe, plover etc., in cold storage, between March 1st and September 20th following. To export any animal or bird or part thereof, mentioned in The Game Act, without a permit from the minister of agriculture. To practice the art of taxidermy unless licensed so to do. To willfully disturb, destroy, or take the eggs of any game or other birds protected by The Game Act. To use a dog to hunt big game. To trap on game or forest reserves, except under special permit. To hunt big game without a license. To hunt or trap fur bearing animals without a license (farmers and members of their family, while actually residing on their farm, exempt). To buy or sell any game heads unless branded by the department. To act as a guide without a license. To deal or traffic in the pelt of any wild animal without a license. To carry a loaded shot gun or rifle in, or on, any vehicle upon a public highway. To discharge a shot gun or rifle from a vehicle upon a public highway.
